Anthony Anichini is an Associate in Mohr Partners' Chicago office, where he works alongside Chris Bargowski, Brandon Glick, and Sam Picchiotti providing tenant-only corporate real estate advisory services. Anthony specializes in representing companies occupying industrial and office space, with a focus on multi-location and portfolio users across North America.

Dedicated exclusively to tenant advocacy, Anthony delivers conflict free, objective guidance to help organizations make smarter real estate decisions. His specialty is in advising middle-market and Fortune 500 companies on strategies that reduce occupancy costs, improve operational efficiency, and align real estate decisions with long-term business objectives.

Anthony supports clients throughout the full real estate lifecycle, including site selection, portfolio optimization, lease negotiation and renegotiation, proactive lease extensions, acquisitions, dispositions, and subleasing strategies. His approach combines market intelligence, data driven analysis, and strategic execution to achieve measurable financial and operational outcomes.

Prior to joining Mohr Partners, Anthony built a strong foundation in client strategy and business development within Chicago's advertising and media industry. He supported new business initiatives for Fortune 500 and high growth clients, developing strategic campaigns designed to increase reach, improve efficiency, and maximize ROI. This background strengthened his skills in negotiation, problem solving, and delivering customized solutions. These core capabilities are now put to use in complex corporate real estate transactions on behalf of the clients he serves.

Anthony holds a Bachelor's degree from the University of Illinois at Chicago. Outside of work, he enjoys staying active outdoors, spending time with family and friends, and supporting local Chicago businesses.
